Tululù

“Tululù” (“silly” in the dialect spoken in Trieste) is an asymmetrical shawl with an unusual shape, knit in a simple stitch pattern which decorates the entire width of the shawl.

The shawl is finished with I-cord borders for a tailored look.

You start knitting from the narrow tip of the shawl, so it can be made as long or as short as you want, depending on how much yarn you have!

Finished measurements :196 cm – 75 ½ in along the longer side and 130 cm – 51 ¼ in along the shorter side (after blocking).

Gauge: 2 sts and 30 rows = 10 cm – 4 in in garter stitch (after blocking).

In fact the gauge is not very important in this pattern. Since the knitting starts from the narrow end of the shawl, it is easy to adjust the length based on how much yarn you have.

Instead, final blocking is important: the shawl must be blocked to reach the desired length and to allow the eyelets to “open up”!

Finishing:

Weave in ends and block aggressively.

To block: wash the shawl in cold water with a small amount of gentle detergent; rinse. Squeeze the shawl between your hands, without twisting, to remove most of the water.

Spread the shawl out on a large towel and roll it up into a cylindrical form, then press it well to remove all of the excess water. Unroll the towel and spread the shawl out on a large, flat, soft surface (that you can poke the pins into).

Stretch the shawl to the finished measurements indicated in the instructions, using a tape measure to check the dimensions. Pin the shawl down to hold its shape, placing the pins about 1 inch apart, being careful to push them firmly into the blocking board.

In alternative, you can use blocking wires which facilitate and speed up the blocking process.

Allow to dry.

Wear it and... be chic!!!
